You may be college center's enemy

It's hard to find people on this campus who don't support the May 27 college center bond election. It's hard to find people in the community who don't support it.

The amazing thing is the fact that conditions were the same just about six months ago when a carbon copy of this very proposition gagged. In defeat, Proposition G lost the guarantee of $1.5 million in federal funding.

With such a fair wind blowing, why was the bond election a failure at that time? The answer is simple and it could be the same answer offered if the May 27 vote turns out to be a replay.

The funny thing about people is how hard they'll work when they don't want something as opposed to how hard they'll work when they do want something. This is most likely what happened last semester.

Though the tax over-ride was widely hailed as a good idea by most there were a few groups who worked actively to insure its failure. People who are outraged by taxes no matter what the reason, people who certainly believe that Hartnell College is already an extravagant institution--these were the real workers in the campaign. It's too bad they were on the wrong side.

editorial

Oh, there was some support from the right side but there are few who should be genuinely proud of any efforts they made at active campaigning on the center's behalf.

Always, time slips away. First the time to do a little campaigning, then the time just to call a few friends and finally the appointed hour of voting slides under the door in a swath of minutes that must be sacrificed for something more important.

It all sounds very pessimistic. But optimism didn't work last time. In an endeavor like this we can't be sure we'll win; it's not a game where you slap your buddy's ass when you're back 20 points and give the old team cheer.

It's politics, where work counts. It just isn't possible for the bond to lose--- if everybody who really wanted a new college center spent two hours actively working to support it and then took the time to vote.

And if it does lose again it probably won't be the people who vote against it that defeat it. No, it'll probably be all those who just didn't vote for it.

Recently I had in my possession a document which might be of some interest to your readers. I have no way of verifying the document (a portion of which was charred), nor do I have it in my possession any longer. It read as follows:

"From: C.

To: D2, XL-100, Sectors 1-6, 9.

Subject: Dissembling.

Our image, indeed our funding, has been threatened by widespread exposure of our activities in Chile, in Guinea-Bissau, in South Vietnam, and elsewhere around the globe. Our relationships with certain of our proprietary organizations have also been damaged by books like The Invisible Government and The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence, both of which have stimulated an unhealthy interest in our agency.

R and D has come up with a counterploy. Discovering that such phenomena as the Protocols of the Elders of Zion, the "International Jewish Conspiracy," and the "Red Scare" served to divert or deflect political demands into extraneous channels, R and D recommends a similar diversion here.

Action:

In each sector we will install one operative to claim CIA involvement in many areas. Actual cases of known involvement (i.e., H. Hughes, E. Howard Hunt) can be used to lend to the charges a certain surface credibility and further confuse the issue. The effect of the policy will be to encourage the populace to worry about trivia or spurious issues, and perhaps ultimately, discredit all criticisms of the CIA. Suggested subjects for CIA tie-in include the

Kennedy assassination, the aforementioned Hughes and Hunt, the SLA, President Ford, Hugh Hefner, Dita Beard, Eddie Fisher, the LAPD, the ICC, the Nashville Country Music Hall of Fame, Dick Allen, Charles Manson, the Bank of America, Bobby Riggs, Robert Kennedy, Arther Bremer, the Green Bay

Trackmen take 9th straight championship

For the ninth straight year in a row, the Hartnell Panther track team is the Coast Conference champion.

The Panthers attained this mark by edging the favored Skyline team last Saturday 155-151 on the Hartnell track.

This is the sixth straight title for Coach Gary Shaw and his teams, and added to the total of the previous coach, Ed Adams, who won three titles, Hartnell has retained control of the Coast Conference track title for the past nine years.

In the 1975 championships, Skyline was rated the favorite because of the talents of the state's leading long jumper, Mike Gilmore, and top hurdler Ike Almond.

But the dominance of Hartnell in the field events gave the Panthers the edge over Skyline.

The 440 relay team gave Hartnell its only first place victory in the running events. The quartet of Alex Pardo, Bill Tisdell, Ron Hall and Keith Jackson broke the tape in 42.2 for their best time in that event this year. The victory also qualified them for the West Coast Relays in Fresno today and tomorrow.

In the field events, Jeff Garcia took first in the javelin with a throw of 201'8", and Carlos Jacobo threw a lifetime best in the discus with a toss of 152'8" to take that competition.

Justin Thornburg was second in the javelin, while Tim Kelly was sixth in the discus.

The triple jumpers dominated their event, taking four of the top six places. Richard Abuan led the Panther jumpers with a leap of 47', followed by Bill Dew (second), John Tamagni (fifth), and Delton Gerard (sixth).

Dew and Abuan also placed second and sixth in the long jump, respectively.

The pole vaulters placed four in the top six, led by Ray Gullion (second), Alan Bennett (third), Bill Smith (fifth), and Danny Simpson (sixth).

Dew took second place in the 120 high hurdles, and was followed by Gerard (third) and Gaylen Woods (sixth).

Tisdell took second in the 220 and third in the 100, Jackson and Hall finished third and fourth in the 220.

All of the first and second place finishers in the conference finals now go to the state championship meet at Porterville next Saturday.

Representing Hartnell will be Pardo, Tisdell, Hall, and Jackson (440 relay team), Dew (long jump, triple jump, 120 high hurdles, 440 intermediate hurdles) Abuan (triple jump), Gullion (pole vault), Garcia and Thornburg (javelin) and Jacobo (discus).

Baseball team drops 3

With Coast Conference title hopes slim at best, the Hartnell baseball team sealed its doom by dropping three straight games.

Hartnell is now 8-6 in league play. The Menlo Oaks did much of the damage, edging the Panthers twice.

The northerners downed Hartnell 3-2 in the continuation of a game begun March 4 and suspended until April 29 due to darkness.

Menlo's Ray Gustafson touched Mark Frazer for a triple in the 12th inning and scored the winning run on a base-hit.

In the regular game, Greg Sancier of the Oaks singled off Frazer with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning and the game was tied at 3-3. Menlo scored to triumph, 4-3.

Hartnell's meager four-hit offense was headed by Dwayne Rowe, who had two hits and Bob Ligon, who collected a pair of RBIs.

The Panthers dropped another game when they were four-hit by Skyline's Sbragin, 3-1.

The only Hart tally came in the fourth inning when Bubba Cummings, Danny Ross and Rich Givens hit consecutive singles.

Danny Camacho allowed only four hits but it was to no avail as the club's batting slump continued.

Rival Monterey Peninsula College visits Salinas this afternoon at 2:30 p.m. when the Panthers try again to pick up a win.

Softball team 3-0; home games next

The Hartnell women's softball team is off to a roaring start, as they are undefeated after their first three games.

Next game for Hartnell will be at home against Cabrillo next Thursday at 4 p.m. The team will entertain Contra Costa and City College of San Francisco in a doubleheader next Saturday on the Hartnell softball diamond. The first game will start at 10 a.m. and the second at 1 p.m.

In their last outing, the Panthers won a 17-12 decision over a visiting San Mateo squad.

Glenda Woodrow picked up her third pitching victory of the season, although she needed relief help from Marianne Williams. The offensive fireworks came from Debbie Encallado, Debbie Jacop, Woodrow and Williams, as each collected two hits.

San Mateo was kept in the game by the poor defensive play of the hosts. The only bright spot defensively was the eight total putouts by Woodrow and Williams.

In earlier games, Hartnell beat De Anza 13-12 and Los Medanos 12-4.

In the De Anza contest Peggy Bell and Williams were the stars on offense as both had four rbi's. Bell also had three hits and Williams hit a homerun.

Defensively, Bell and Gloria Orozco were outstanding. This was the first league contest of the season for the Panthers.

In the Los Medanos game (which was the first of the year) Woodrow was the star of the contest, as she hit a homerun, drove in five more runs, and was the winning pitcher.

Others who contributed to the winning effort for Hartnell were Marlene Jefferson with two hits, Williams with three steals and Jacop, who did her usual good job of bunting.

Golf team clinches loop crown tie[tle]

Hartnell golfer Bob Struve follows through on a putt

By virtue of its 34-20 triumph over Cabrillo, the Panther golf team clinched a share of the Coast Conference dual-meet championship.

Hartnell and Monterey Peninsula College (MPC) both finished the league season at 11-1.

After defeating the Lobos 32-22 on their course, Hartnell was upset

Golfers tourney champs

The Panther linksters continued their exceptional play by winning the Coast Conference tourney held last Monday at Hollister.

The Harts defeated dual-meet co-champ MPC by 10 strokes.

24-30 at Corral de Tierra by MPC.

In the Cabrillo match at Seascape Country Club, a strong performance by Laird Small playing at number three, keyed the Hartnell win. Low medalist at 71, Small defeated the Seahawks' Tom Bourland (82) 6-0.

Number one Hartnell linkster Alan Keller was tied by John Carbone 3-3, as both shot 75.

Bob Struve, playing second, struggled past Cabrillo's Dave Peterson 4-2. Struve shot an 82; Peterson an 83.

In the best ball the Harts lost 2-4.

The slack was picked up, however, by Small (who defeated Bourland), John Lofgren (who topped T. Demoto 5-1 with a 74) and Dennis Campbell (who came in with an 84 to tie Steve Hogan).

Ted Hall, at number four, was the only Panther defeated. Hall shot a 79 but was downed by Bob Berg's 76, 2-4.

The Panthers lost the best ball 1-5 but Lofgren and Campbell came through winning 4-2.

Coach Arvin Smith felt that the team had an excellent chance in upcoming action.

"Keller, Small or Struve, either one, should do well," said Smith in regards to his club's Northern California and state tournament chances.

The Northern California championship tourney is Monday at Sierra College.

Campbell sets school record in state meet

Tom Campbell of the Hartnell swimming team set a new school record last weekend in the 100 yard freestyle event at the State Junior College Swimming Championships at Diablo Valley College.

Campbell touched in at 49:07 to set the new Hartnell mark and place 14th overall in a field of 65 swimmers.

In the meet, Campbell was the highest individual finisher for Hartnell. The 400 freestyle relay team of Pat Brennand, Campbell, Steve Dagnall, and Pete Isberg turned in a time of 3:21.7, not good enough to place the squad among the top finishers.

Netters fall in tourney

The Hartnell tennis team ended its league action last weekend in the Coast Conference Tournament in Cabrillo.

MPC took the conference crown with 22 points, followed by Cabrillo with 19. Hartnell finished with eight points.

In dual-meet action prior to the conference tournament, Hartnell fell to Cabrillo 8-1 on the Panther courts.

Steve Doolittle, Ron Jeffers, and Elmer Dolera all won their singles matches, but it wasn't enough as Skyline bested Hartnell 6-3.

Small turnout for health care program

A program to train persons to provide health care, the Primary Care Associate Program, has quietly begun its second year at Hartnell.

Only 13 persons, from Santa Cruz to Santa Maria met the April 1 application deadline for the 1975-1977 program.

From these 13, two students will be selected for the two year program. The first year involves course work at Hartnell. The second year is spent in clinical instruction which is coordinated through Foothill College and Stanford University Medical Center.

"I guess many people do not know that the program exists," says Kenneth Holback, dean of student personnel and program coordinator, referring to the low number of applicants.

Prerequisites are high school or college courses in biology, chemistry and physics, a high school diploma or its equivalent, ability to perform well at a college level and good health.

Those who have had a minimum of two years of responsible direct patient contact will be given preference.

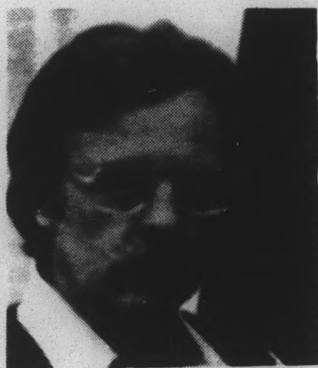

Two students, David Larda and Eugene Guzman are currently completing their first year of the program at Hartnell.

Next year, they will travel to Stanford and complete their work towards a Primary Care Associate degree.

On April 28, representatives from Stanford, along with Holback, reviewed the 13 applications for the program.

Personal interviews are schedule for May 12. The applicants will be interviewed by Holback, representatives from the Stanford faculty and a local physician.

Butterbaugh quits fine arts chairmanship

Robert Butterbaugh

In his own words, Robert Butterbaugh as Hartnell's fine arts department chairman has either "had enough" or is "fed up" with his position.

"One serves as chairman until he has had enough or is fed up with it," said Butterbaugh.

The board of trustees has approved Butterbaugh's resignation from the chairmanship as well as a year's sabbatical leave, effective at the end of the fall semester. He will be replaced by Robert Lee, a band instructor and counselor at Hartnell.

Butterbaugh plans to spend the first half of his sabbatical studying Meso-American art of the pre-Columbian period in Mexico. For the remaining period of time he will return to the United States to study at the International Institute of Printmaking in Santa Cruz.

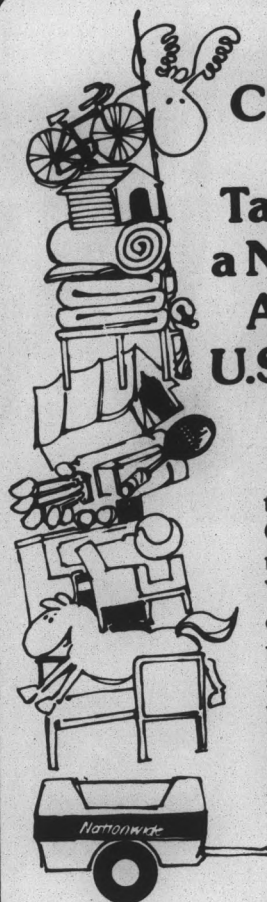

Butterbaugh also plans to spend some time in his own Salinas art studio.

After his sabbatical is over, Butterbaugh will return to Hartnell and resume a regular position in the art department.

Says he, "I do not expect to take back the job of chairman."

As street violence increases, many young women are turning to the art of self-defense in preparation to feel confident when alone on dark streets. Hartnell is offering a class in the technique, taught by Everett Rodriguez of the Monterey County Sheriff's Office. To enhance their understanding of some of the methods taught by Rodriguez, his group visited Rich Avila Karate Studio on South Main Street. They watched demonstrations of Bou-TO Kai Karate, a Japanese form of the art.

Bond election gets college try--again

by ROB GAGNON
Staff-Writer

The Hartnell College center bond election, which met defeat as Proposition G in last November's election, will come before voters again on May 27.

The measure, if approved, levies only eight cents per $100 of assessed valuation, and this is if the new center is not subsidized by the federal government.

Had the over-ride passed in November Hartnell would have been assured $1.5 million in federal funds.

Various groups throughout the school and community are keying up for the election. The ASB, which spent $800 for publicity in November, authorized $1000 on Thursday, April 24 for the upcoming election. Plans are in effect to buy radio and newspaper advertising and the ASB may sponsor a door-to-door effort.

In addition, Citizens for Hartnell, a group headed by local banker Firmin Gryp and attorney Joseph Stave will be working with the college to further publicize the measure.

Hartnell Pres. Gibb Madsen is optimistic. "People in the community and the students," said Madsen, "see the greater need for a center for college activities."

Madsen added that the college has produced an 18-point question and answer sheet to provide voters with information. The fact sheet covers nearly every question about the new college center.

If the measure does not pass, Madsen said, "We'd probably try again." He followed this statement saying, "But I think that it will pass; we're doing more this time. It will complete our college and make it similar to other community colleges."

Two people who would like to see the measure pass are Monnie Finney and Paul Nelson of the bookstore.

Finney, bookstore manager, said that unless the college center bill is passed, students will be forced to undergo the long waiting-in-line process in the years to come.

Asst. bookstore manager Nelson said that no new methods have been devised to hurry up the book purchasing process at this time.

The present bookstore was constructed in 1954 for 800 students. The new college center, which would include a bookstore for 6000 students, would also have a career information center, cafeteria, student offices, multi-purpose rooms and restroom facilities.

M. Mouse, others censored over years, shows display

Did you know that Mickey Mouse was banned in East Germany for projecting an anti-communist attitude? Or that the Wizard of Oz was removed from Detroit public schools in 1956 for its poorly written, sentimental content? How about Salinas-born author John Steinbeck's Cannery Row being censored as "unhealthy reading" in a sophomore English class in Chicago, Ill. in 1962?

A list of publications banned or censored for countless reasons was recently loaned to the Hartnell Library by the Social Responsibilities Round Table of the Bay Area Reference Council.

The list reveals that many writers through the years have had trouble getting their work accepted.

In 1930, Boston, Mass. banned Ernest Hemingway's The Sun Also Rises. Boris Pasternak's Dr. Zhivago was refused publication in Russia in 1956.

As recently as the 1960's, books were still banned. Western novelist Zane Grey was banned in Downey, Ca. in 1962 for using corrupt language. That same year, Texas high schools banned Harper Lee's To Kill a Mockingbird for its "obscenity."

All of these mentioned texts are now in circulation -- mostly due to court appeal.

Four summer plays offered

Summer 1975 will mark the first season for the Hartnell College Summer Repertory Theatre (HSR).

The program will begin the first day of the summer session, June 16 and conclude July 26, the day after the six weeks summer session ends. Auditions will be held June 14, 15, and 16.

Students will be able to participate in an intensive six unit theatre program, which will culminate in 28 performances of three major plays and a children's play.

Performed in repertory July 2 - 26 the productions will be staged in both the main and arena theatres. The ensemble will produce the musical "The Fantasticks," the comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace" and the drama "The Hot L Baltimore."

The children's play has not been announced.

Come on out and cheer, guys

Male students at Hartnell are being particularly encouraged to show up for next year's pep squad tryouts on May 23 by the group's advisor, Carol Kermode. The tryouts will start at 4 p.m. in the amphitheater.

The fact that men are being sought is only one of a number of changes in the structure for next year's yell leaders.

In previous years, Hartnell had two groups, usually girls, designated as cheerleaders and song girls. Now, however, there will be only one group of five persons, known simply as the pep squad.

The format was changed by Kermode and Bob Kelley, physical education department chairman.

Says Kermode, "It is the time for a change of pace. Is it possible a few loud masculine voices and hairy legs along with the short skirts will reignite our failing school spirit?"

Prospective leaders, she says, should be "creative, enthusiastic and imaginative," with a "certain amount of uninhibited aggressiveness."

The requirements for squad eligibility state that all students at Hartnell with 10 units of credit and passing grades are eligible. One unit is granted for participation on the squad.

'La Mancha' a musical masterpiece

by BRADY RYBURN
Staff-Writer

Impressive is the word that best describes "Man of La Mancha."

The Hartnell musical is entertaining and an enjoyable way to spend a night in laughter and tears.

Michael Balch, as the feeble Don Quixote, is excellent. The role of Quixote is a difficult one because of the frequent character changes that must be done while on stage. Balch handles the transitions smoothly with the changes being definite. Balch's voice, however, lacked adequate projection for complete effectiveness in some of his numbers.

Pat Horsely, playing Aldonza, deserves praise for a convincing performance as a bitter wench. Aldonza's moments of rage were realistic and her bitterness piercing. Had she weakened her wall of anger at moments, a stronger tie between the audience and the role could have been created. The song "Dulcinea" sung by Horsley at Quixote's death bed was indescribably beautiful and a product of a talented actress. Harold Peiken, as Sancho, Quixote's side kick, is the superlative of the musical. Peiken's voice, characterization and manner combine to create a Sancho loved by all. Harold Peiken, as Sancho, conveys a warmth and friendliness to the audience that forges a love between the two.

"Man of La Mancha" is outstanding in the areas of costuming, makeup and blocking. Also to work with 47 people as members of a show is a feat in itself but to have it turn out as coordinated as "Man of La Mancha" is unbelievable, and the credit must go to the director---Ron Danko.

Danko, the cast and Hartnell should be proud of "Man of La Mancha."

The play will be presented again at eight tonight and tomorrow night with two performances Sunday at 1 and 7 p.m.

'Impossible dream'

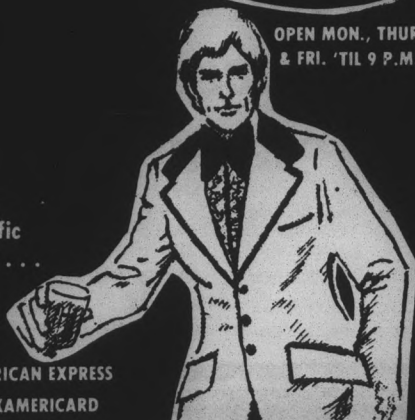

Michael Balch, in the role of Don Quixote de La Mancha, searches for his impossible dream in the Hartnell musical, "Man of La Mancha". Final performances of this musical are scheduled for tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m., with two added performances Sunday at 1 and 7 p.m.

Tom Williams, 18, was voted Hartnell's ASB president in elections held April 16 and 17. Williams, a freshman, is a 1974 Salinas high graduate. His only opposition came from Sheila Merrick [see related story, next page]. This interview took place after he accepted the reins of the ASB on Thursday, April 24.

Panther Sentinel: First off, what enters your mind at the thought of being ASB president?

Tom Williams: The first thing I think about is just that I hope I can do it. There's a lot to do. I've been thinking a lot about keeping up with my school work, free time, things like that.

PS: What made you think that you were suited to be ASB president?

TW: I was in the ASB, not for long, but I was and I just thought it needed a lot of help. I was the only one involved at the time that was interested. But I don't want to make myself sound like a martyr, that I was the only one who would do it.

PS: Did the fact that you were unopposed make a difference?

TW: No, because I was the first one to take out the papers. I didn't realize I would go unopposed for as long as I did.

PS: Did you become a candidate for any personal reasons?

TW: Sure, I won't b.s. about that. It looks nice on your transcript. I mean, shit, I don't think anybody doesn't see that as one advantage or at least one of the things involved.

PS: What are your priorities in terms of ASB action next year?

TW: The first thing I want to do is try and get more people involved in the ASB because a few of us are trying to do everything. I think if we get more people involved we'll represent the interests of everybody.

PS: How are you planning on getting people involved?

TW: By letting them know what's available. You can't twist their arms, but I think if they see what's going on and get interested they'll get involved.

PS: Do you ever think it's hopeless?

TW: Yeah, I do. Because the students here really don't seem to care. But I think once you get something started, once you get little movements, they'll act as catalysts to get things going.

PS: What's the biggest cause of apathy here?

TW: I don't know what the cause is. The one thing that bugs me the most is all of the kids I hear bitching about Hartnell. They can't wait to get out; they're just here for two years. Well, if they don't get involved and make their two years worthwhile they'll be wasted years.

PS: Do you think the administration has been a deterrent to student activities?

TW: Not at all. I think the students aren't using what they have, though. That's one problem. When I talk about student involvement I don't mean just activities. I'm also talking about activity on different committees, within the ASB and within the school, which provide students a chance to make changes in the present system. They can also see that what they want preserved is preserved.

PS: What do you think should be changed in terms of the school itself?

TW: The college calendar. Right now it isn't a very good situation. The gap at Christmas and finals right after is a real hassle.

PS: What are you going to do to change it?

TW: Right now, nothing. There's legislation at the state level by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos (D-Campbell) that will provide for more flexibility in community college calendars.

PS: And if this legislation doesn't make it?

TW: Let's wait and see. We can't

Interview: Williams takes the ASB throne

"I mean, I don't know if you can consider better restrooms social or academic but you need them."

force any changes but we can let the administration know how we feel.

PS: What else will you do to promote student participation?

TW: Well, we need students to participate in the committees I spoke of earlier. There are student seats on curriculum, master planning and public events committees.

PS: How seriously do you think the administration and governing board take student attempts at things like that?

TW: That all depends on what it relates to. I think they listen to the students and take into consideration how the students feel but they also have to take into consideration the faculty and staff. But the students do have a vote.

PS: Don't you think students should get the first consideration?

TW: Yeah, but don't misinterpret me. I think whenever you say you're doing something just for the students you're taking away from its relation to education. The schools are here for education.

PS: Of the students, though. Right?

TW: But there are a lot of things you can do for the students that wouldn't relate to anybody else. You could, say, put flowers out all over if the students wanted them. You can justify anything in terms of the students but it's another thing when you relate it to the education of the students.

PS: Well, specific things now, what action do you see coming up?

TW: One of the first things that could pull the students together is the college center bond election. This is one facility I think the students need and all the students want and they should get out and support it.

PS: Do you think there is anything else at this time which the effort would better justify in terms of educational value? You were talking about educational value; aren't there more educational things that you would like to see first?

TW: As soon as we get the college center completed that will complete Hartnell's ten-year plan. That's supposedly going to include all of the

Sheila Merrick: token candidate

Sheila Merrick, Williams' only contestant for the ASB presidency, was neither bitter nor disappointed at losing.

The reason Merrick ran for the presidency was that the position, with Williams as the only candidate, was uncontested. "I had concern for the democracy of the school," she said.

The turnout, and coverage of the election offered by the Panther Sentinel, bothered Merrick. "There was less than one thirtieth of the student body that voted in the election," she said, "and I saw one tiny article in the newspaper.

"I'm not bitter at all, though. I even voted for Tom."

facilities we need.

PS: But you were talking about education. Is a student center in your eyes a vital aspect of education, or would it just be nice to have?

TW: Education goes a lot further than textbooks; it includes more than academics. I think a college education or any education includes both academic and social aspects. If you're not preparing people socially, in addition to mentally, you're not preparing them to participate in society.

The college center though, isn't just going to be a place to socialize. It will include a better cafeteria, a career center, a better bookstore and better restrooms. I mean, I don't know if you can consider better restrooms social or academic but you need them.

Choir returns

Hartnell's Choir and Chamber Singers will end their 1975 concert tour with a home concert at noon today in the Performing Arts Choral Hall (PA 125).

The group returned to Salinas this morning after a six-day performance including stops at the state capitol, Mission Tesoro in Los Banos, Yuba College in Yuba City and Monterey Peninsula College.

The annual event gave the 40 singers "lots of practice and educational value," says conductor Dr. Vahe Aslanian.

Prom--May 17

The ASB will sponsor a semi-formal, formal prom for students and faculty next Saturday, May 17, at the Holiday Inn in Carmel.

Dinner begins at 7:30 to 9 p.m. with dancing from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Bids, $20 per couple with dinner or $10 excluding dinner, are available at the bookstore.

Cultural fair

The annual cultural fair sponsored by the Inter Club Council will be held this year from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, May 18.

Conspiracy memo unveiled

Packers, the gradual phaseout of prizes in cereal boxes, the Bermuda Triangle, Leon Jaworski, mind control, the musical "Hair," Big Bird, and warts. An operative may wish to add others, or delete some from the above list. If possible, operatives should try to get media exposure along with collegiate speaking engagements. In a short time, we hope, the American people will forget all about what the CIA really does. Operatives are assigned as follows...."

The fair, which is free, is designed for those who want to display their arts and crafts as well as for those who simply want to view them.

ASB Pres. Tom Williams says that the fair will be held at the inner court area here at Hartnell. This is the area between the library and the main offices.

Each person or group that wants to have a designated area for the fair should contact the ASB or the community service offices.

Williams said that each area would be approximately 10 by 10 feet and that extra space, if desired, could be purchased for a fee.

He also added that the amphitheater may be used for those interested performers who wish to put on a play or sing.

Those interested should sign up as soon as possible so that the fair may be organized and areas assigned.

Absentee ballots

Voters who wish to cast ballots in the college center election on May 27 but plan to be absent from their precincts can take advantage of absentee ballots.

Those interested should contact the county election department at 424-8611 and apply for an absentee ballot. The deadline to apply is May 20.

Two other alternatives are to go straight to the election department and cast an absentee ballot or use the absentee ballot application sent with sample ballots before the election.

BSU dance

The Black Student Union (BSU) will sponsor a dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. on Saturday, May 24 in the auxiliary gym. Tickets are 75 cents at the door and music will be provided by records.

Blood donors?

"Give a gift of life--a unit of blood," urges the American Red Cross, which will be on campus taking blood donations from 9:30 to 1:30 p.m. next Thursday in the college center lounge.

Anyone 18 to 65 years old can donate a pint of blood. In return, donors and their families will be guaranteed blood for one year if they need it.
